Krysal Tepsyr

i will roleplay that i am a rock living in space, on a rock this is definitely, absolutely, 100% roleplaying.

gone_farther

A golden space phoenix, trailing sparks from its luminiferous wings, approaches your asteroid.

Krysal Tepsyr

oh yo

nice

gone_farther

It sweeps a wing in a large circle, light lingering in the wake of its wave. A greeting?

Krysal Tepsyr

i wave back. it looks like a wave, it's probably some kinda wave.

gone_farther

The phoenix alights ever so gently upon your rock, and looks about.

Krysal Tepsyr

this is likely a much larger rock than anticipated. upon this rock are two tall towers, their walls formed from opaque crystal. in the distance, some pretty well-kept gardens. how they managed to grow plants upon this asteroid will remain a mystery, a miracle, or both, because quite honestly, i don't remember how we did it either.

the rock is not the only thing here, but getting into the rest of the things in this space would make this narration real complicated real fast. just go with the general "there are an awful lot of vessels out here for this abnormally large rock."

krysal herself sits upon the asteroid, a small blanket beneath her, a mug with the words "#1 BEST FRIEND" in hand.

gone_farther

The phoenix settles before Krysal, at the very edge of her blanket, and sweeps its wings around to almost touch her, almost encircle her, before pulling back. Still, it seems poised, attentive: a question awaiting response.

*and

Krysal Tepsyr

krysal tilts her head, thinking for a moment. ah. a hug? she sets her mug aside and opens her arms.

gone_farther

The phoenix embraces its new friend, very lightly and very warmly.

Krysal Tepsyr

hug time. ye.

hugs happen.

gone_farther

The phoenix pulls away after a moment. Its movements are noticeably bouncier. It waves towards the crystalline towers then raises both wings above its head and entwines them. There is something vaguely quizzical about the gesture.

Krysal Tepsyr

krysal's gaze follows the motions of the phoenix's wings, then looks back. "you askin what those are?"

gone_farther

The phoenix bounds towards them in two large loping leaps, pauses, turns back, and makes a smaller hop towards you.

Krysal Tepsyr

"you wanna go inside?"

krysal is currently just trying to puzzle out what the phoenix is asking of her.

gone_farther

The phoenix bounces in place, then slightly towards the towers. It uses its iridescent wings to move, in a way that does not seem to depend on the presence of an atmosphere. In fact, if you look closely, the feathers seem to shift in ways reminiscent of higher-dimensional objects moving through three-dimensional space.

Hang on, jR wants me to do a thing

There are traditions of mathematical philosophy in both Western philosophy and Eastern philosophy. Western philosophies of mathematics go as far back as Pythagoras, who described the theory 'everything is mathematics'(mathematicism), Plato, who paraphrased Pythagoras, and studied the ontological status of mathematical objects, and Aristotle, who studied logic and issues related to infinity (actual versus potential).

That medicine has no accepted definition of holistic healing is a curiosity. If healing is a core function of medicine, then exploration of its symbolic meaning compels organized research of healing phenomena,¹⁸ and an operational definition of healing in a holistic sense is warranted. Such a definition would allow the systematic exploration of healing through identifiable and repeatable operations to determine more precisely its phenomena.

While such ideas have been central to philosophy from its inception, the philosophy of space and time was both an inspiration for and a central aspect of early analytic philosophy.
