

the World Trade Center bombing - "the worst sneak attack since Pearl Harbor."

I'm afraid that once we find out who's responsible for the attacks, we'll go to war. The Kings Bay area is a target if we do because our naval base is one of the top ten in the nation, and is nuclear.

Because of this, there won't be any school tomorrow! Duh, class today, all we did was watch the news. It seems that although Palestine gov't claims to have not launched the attack, their citizens are literally dancing in the street with joy that America was attacked.

Mom said that this bombing is history, and that we'll be able to tell our kids some day.

I don't think so. Everyone remembers Pearl Harbor because it was the trigger that began the US's involvement in WW II. But, as long as we don't go to war, (as we hopefully won't) no one will remember this. By the way, the new DBZ's started yesterday. Also Prague report core at. I have a 97, 92

112, and a 92.9. My hand kinda hurts, so I'm done writing for tonight.

Abby and I were asleep in my bed when we were woken up by the unexpected sound of an airplane. "I thought the planes were supposed to be grounded," I said to Abby. I went to my window, but didn't see anything. I heard Mom's voice and asked her if she just heard a plane. She said that she did, and it bothered her. I asked if the planes were supposed to be grounded & she said yes, but that she'd heard planes yesterday when they were grounded, too. Just as I was thinking that yesterday's catastrophe had left a paranoid, a rumbling came. It might have been thunder, but it was long. A few minutes later, at 10:42, while I was writing, a second rumble occurred. I hope it wasn't anything serious. Mom left before I even started writing, so get someone, I'm not sure where.

Goku just ~~is~~ won the otherworld championship. Guess what, as I'd suspected, years have gone by in the rear world. Gohan is a teenager & is going to his first day of school on Monday!
